Projects I have worked on:

Advanced Research Methods January 2006

For a final assignment on a year 2 elective class, I completed a 4000 word extended essay titled "Computer Games Are Male Dominated". The paper concentrates on the gradual change of the workforce in the computer games industry, and studies why the present computer games industry is the way it is today. This paper provided logical thinking and advanced relevant research skills.

Final Project Year 3

I created an interactive e-learning skateboard site using mainly macromedia flash and css. The website uses basic and advanced action scripting skills, utilised in different forms including: a forum, games, content and non-linear navigation systems.

Hobbies:

Skateboarding, bmxing, anime, playing the guitar (been playing for 4 years), drawing, music, going to concerts, chess, designing and completing tutorials to expand my knowledge on software programs. I am also learning Japanese in my spare time as I have a interest in the Japanese culture and I plan to visit there one day.
